Event Recap

Executive Briefing: Update on the Export-Import Bank of the United States

On August 21, 2024, Judith DelZoppo Pryor, First Vice President and Vice Chair of the Board of Directors of the Export-Import Bank of the United States (EXIM), gave an informative talk sponsored by the International Trade Association of Greater Chicago and Ennes International. Appointed by President Biden, Pryor emphasized EXIM's critical role in supporting employment creation through exports, focusing on the "Make More in America" effort. This new initiative intends to promote US manufacturers by financing facility construction, therefore sustaining exports throughout their full life cycle. With over 35 years of expertise in development finance and worldwide markets, including satellite communications and international finance, Pryor's leadership continues to be critical in achieving EXIM's purpose of promoting US economic growth.

SelectGlobal's FDI Chain Blog Series has been published!

SelectGlobal's forthcoming blog series will delve into the complexities of Foreign Direct Investment (FDI). This series has thirteen (13) up-to-date collaborative information about the complexities of investments locally and internationally with the top leaders in the FDI business - real estate, import and export, foreign investments, and much more. Learn important facts about the FDI journey, from initial recruiting attempts to long-term development and expansion. Each topic gives a comprehensive overview, assessing industry trends, regulatory consequences, and success stories to illuminate the path forward.

Let us jumpstart with this topic: Hydrogen Generation: The Clean Energy of the Future in the US 2024

Hydrogen energy in the US for 2024 highlights its potential as a clean, versatile energy source. The focus is on its role in decarbonizing various sectors, emerging hydrogen hubs in the Southeast, and supportive federal policies, showcasing hydrogen's promise for a sustainable future. Jamie Newell, the Strategic Development Consultant in Eastward H2 gives her insights on this topic.

Following is Driving Economic Development: Federal and State Tax Consulting for Fortune 500 Companies which is co-written with Sabrina Champagne, the Director of Employment Tax Credits from Sikich. This blog talks about how economic success hinges on adeptly navigating complex tax structures. Federal and state tax credits are vital for Fortune 500 companies to optimize profits while adhering to tax strategies.

Another topic has been published: The State of Foreign Direct Investment in the US Commerce Industry: Trends and Opportunities for 2024

In 2024, FDI in the U.S. commerce sector will be boosted by e-commerce, AI logistics, and new regulations like the Inflation Reduction Act. Despite economic uncertainties, the sector's resilience and tech growth offer strong investment opportunities but need expert guidance for regulatory challenges.

More will be published soon, so don't miss out on this! Join us as we explore the dynamics of FDI, highlighting key case studies and expert analysis. Stay educated, empowered, and tuned in to SelectGlobal's FDI Chain Blog Series for a deeper look at the transformational effect of international investment.
